Curriculum Item for Discussion

Since our founding in 2013, Pinnacle Classical Academy has proudly offered a college-preparatory education built upon the foundation of the Core Knowledge Sequence. More precisely, Pinnacle Classical Academy has proudly offered a college-preparatory education built upon the foundation of the 2010 edition of the Core Knowledge Sequence.

Earlier this year, the Core Knowledge Foundation published a 2023 edition of the Core Knowledge Sequence. Our initial examination of the 2023 Core Knowledge Sequence reveals significant continuity, some changes that we believe are improvements, and other changes that we believe may raise questions in the minds of some within the classical and broader educational communities.

The administrative team will engage in a thorough review of the 2023 Core Knowledge Sequence during the summer and fall semester. The administrative team unanimously seeks

- the blessing of the board for the school to continue to use the 2010 Core Knowledge Sequence during the 2023-24 school year while we thoroughly review the changes the 2023 Sequence
- the blessing of the board for the administration to explore other curricula in use at classical schools around the country for potential curricular enhancements, in a manner consistent with state testing requirements. Examples of these programs include the curriculum of the Classical Latin School Association and Dr. Anika Prather's curricular recommendations, which we are learning more about at the recommendation of a PCA Classical Foundations Program advisory board member; this curriculum draws on the African-American classical education tradition.

Our goal is to present to the board's curriculum committee by March 31, 2024, a curricular proposal that would incorporate what we believe to be a blend of the best elements of the 2010 Core Knowledge Sequence, the 2023 Core Knowledge Sequence, and other classical curricula – with the eventual goal of publishing this synthesis on our website as Pinnacle Classical Academy’s Classical Curriculum.

Classical Foundations Program (CFP) Update
May 1, 2023

1. T. K. Coleman’s monthly videos, based on the board’s Values Statement, are shown each month to students in middle school and high school homerooms. In April, the theme was esteem; in May, the theme is pride.
2. The Classical Foundation Program has begun to receive donations for an area of the new library devoted to classical literature and books consistent with the mission of the program. The library is envisioned as a research library for students and community members, rather than a circulating library.
3. Mr. John Hood has agreed to be our 2023 graduation speaker on Saturday, June 3. His biography:
